

GIS Day™

In Montana's Capitol Rotunda

Wednesday, November 16, 2011

9:30 am - 4:00 pm

The Montana State Library, on behalf of all the participating local, state and federal agencies and private sector firms, cordially invites you to GIS Day 2011 on November 16th in the Capitol Rotunda. Throughout the day, many Geographic Information System (GIS) professionals will exhibit their use of GIS and their online mapping applications. Attend the event and register to win a free GPS unit, GIS books, an online GIS training course, a one-year MAGIP membership, and other GIS items. Scheduled events include:

11:00 am - 12:00 pm in the Capitol Rotunda

- Welcome - Jennie Stapp, Digital Library Director, Montana State Library
- The Importance of GIS in Montana - John Bohlinger, Montana Lieutenant Governor
- The Use of GIS with the Yellowstone/Silvertip Spill - Richard Oppen, Director, Montana Department of Environmental Quality

2:00 - 3:00 pm in Room 250 of the Capitol

- "What is GIS?" - Diane Papineau, GIS Analyst, Montana State Library
