Project Narrative *

Elizabeth Matthews teaches 6th grade at the Gallatin Gateway School. She won the 2014 Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching. As past award winner, Liz is hosting a dinner for the 2015 Montana award nominees and award winners. The dinner is also be attended by the Montana Superintendent of Public Instruction, Denise Juneau along with other political and elected officials. Liz is looking for swag items for 20 people that she can have at the dinner places – specifically MAGIP notebooks, pens, USB devices, & pint glasses or other items you feel appropriate.

Our sons are in the same grade and play football together. She is aware of MAGIP and what we do as I've encouraged her to apply for our grants in the past. She was telling me about the dinner and that she needed to get "swag items" from local business/organizations and I offered to submit a request for assistance to MAGIP on her behalf.

I'm sure she would be receptive of MAGP printed out a nice flyer stating our support of GIS education to go along with the swag items.
